Black History Moment...

John Hope Franklin (born Jan. 2, 1915, Rentiesville, OK - died March 25, 2009, Durham, NC)

If a commitment to reason and justice is the hallmark of a civilized person, then John Hope Franklin certainly must be considered among America's most civilized individuals. Through a career that includes accomplishments in the fields of teaching, writing and public policy, these dual principles have been the common denominator in each of his endeavors.

John Hope Franklin was born on January 2, 1915 in Rentiesville, Oklahoma, the youngest child (and only son) of Buck Colbert and Molly Franklin. The family moved to Tulsa in the early 1920's where

B.C. Franklin's law practice provided early lessons for the young Franklin on the relationship between individuals and the law. This exposure to the law combined with the family's deeply held beliefs on the importance of education formed a pattern that would be evidenced in Franklin's entire career.

Franklin was graduated from Tulsa's Booker T. Washington High School in 1931. In 1935 he received the Bachelor of Arts degree in history, magna cum laude, from Fisk University. He continued his education at Harvard University, where he received the MA and PhD degrees in 1936 and 1941 respectively. In addition to his earned degrees he has received honorary degrees from over 70 institutions, including the University of Tulsa and the University of Oklahoma.

Franklin is a teacher. His career has included positions at Fisk University, St. Augustine's College, North Carolina College at Durham and Howard University. At Brooklyn College he held the posts of professor and chairman of the history department beginning 1956. In 1964 Franklin began teaching at the University of Chicago, an institution where he would also serve as the history department chairman and subsequently be named John Matthew Manly Distinguished Service Professor in 1969. Additional positions have allowed him to teach in Salzburg, Austria, Cambridge University in England and Australia, where he was a Fulbright professor at several universities. Currently, Franklin is John B. Duke Emeritus of History at Duke University.

In his capacity as a lecturer Franklin's service includes several universities in India under auspices of the American Council on Learned Societies and the Department of State. His international experiences also include stints in South America, the South Pacific and East Asia as Lincoln Lecturer for the Board of Foreign Scholarships. In America's bicentennial year Franklin was selected by the National Endowment for the Humanities as the 1976 Jefferson Lecturer, the nation's highest honor for humanities scholars. And, in 1988 Franklin returned to his hometown to present the 1988 Oklahoma Lecture in the Humanities.

Franklin's influence on America's education has not been limited to those fortunate enough to attend his classes or be in the audience of his lectures. His career in publication began in 1943 with the appearance of THE FREE NEGRO IN NORTH CAROLINA, 1790-1860 and has continued to the present time with the inclusion of ten additional volumes. The publication of FROM SLAVERY TO FREEDOM; A HISTORY OF NEGRO AMERICANS in 1947 is an event of particular significance as the book has been widely used as the text for Black studies courses universities throughout the world. In addition to his own books, Franklin's publication in scholarly journals and his editorship of many editions have produced a body of work that has made a tremendous impact on the American public.

Franklin has been the recipient of numerous honors for his work. His colleagues elected him president of the American Studies Association (1967-1968), the Southern Historical Association (1970-71), THE Organization of American Historians (1974-75) and the American Historical Association (1978-79). In 1964 he was elected to membership in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. His election to the Oklahoma Hall of Fame in 1979 marked the first time a Black Oklahoman has been elected to that body. During his distinguished career, Franklin has received presidential appointments to the National Council on the Humanities and the Advisory Commission of Public Diplomacy and was named a United States delegate to the twenty-first General Conference of UNESCO.

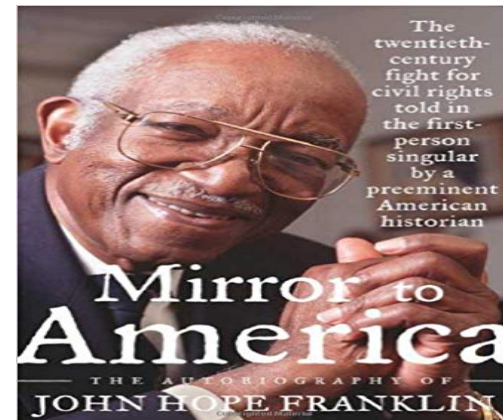

In the arena of public affairs Franklin's counsel is sought by America's leading figures. His work as a member of the research team in the Supreme Court's landmark BROWN VS THE BOARD OF EDUCATION was integral to the outlawing of the segregation in education Franklin personally experienced throughout his career. His participation in the vanguard of the civil rights movement included his presence in Selma, Alabama in 1965 at the historic march led by Dr. Martin Luther King.

The astounding total of achievements and honors amassed by Franklin serves as a testament to the commitment to two simple principles learned in his earliest years. Reason and justice are principles that have led him from a limited, segregated Oklahoma in the 1930's to his recognition as the preeminent American historian.

Dr. Franklin currently resides in Durham, North Carolina with his wife Aureilia. Their son, John Whittington, lives in New York City.

December 30, 2019

Dear Pastor Murphy and My Greater Little Zion Church Family,

Please let me convey my sincere heartfelt thanks for the outpouring of your prayers, well wishes, get well cards, hospital and home visits, prepared meals and general conversations while I grow stronger each day recuperating from my recent bypass surgery. Your loving and kind expressions have made this journey, before and after surgery, much easier to bear. It is awesome to know that there are people who love me enough to express their very best for my complete recovery, not out of necessity, but out of a genuine concern for me as a fellow sister in Christ, and for that I offer my love and gratitude to all of you.

I know that it is by His Grace and Mercy that I am here to tell you all how He kept me on a 15-day cruise in "heart attack" mode and brought me back home to capable surgeons. He did exactly as I asked Him to do. He also soothed my thoughts and kept me in His Perfect Peace from the time I went in to surgery until now. It is AWESOME to be in the arms of a God who can keep you like that – NO unnecessary worries! Just an indescribable peace that let's one know that EVERYTHING is all right, no matter which side of the flood you wake up on. That's how I felt!

So, whereas I know it is He who brought me back and is keeping me still, He took the time to send an awesome family like you to see about, pray about and care about me. Thank you all for your kind and loving expressions. Prayerfully, it will not be long before I can once again rejoin you all in the Sanctuary.

With Love in Christ,
Sister Sandy Smith

Psalm 25:1-5

To You, O Lord, I lift up my soul; in You I trust, O my God. Do not let my enemies triumph over me. No one whose hope is in You will ever be put to shame, but they will be put to shame who are treacherous without excuse. Show me Your ways, O Lord; teach me Your paths; guide me in Your truth and teach me, for You are God my Savior, and my hope is in You all the day long. Focused Family Prayer: As we start a new year full of hope, goals and ideas, let us first focus on who GOD is in our lives, what He has done in the past and what He will do in the future. We may not know what the future will be, but the gift of GOD is that He will never leave us nor forsake us - for we seek His presence daily, led by the Holy Spirit. SEEK GOD IN ALL THINGS IN 2020!
