Sermon Outline
So Glad I’m Saved Part 2
Ephesians 1:1-6

1. Because of my Salvation

2. Because of my Sanctification

3. Because of my Security

This is my Bible. I am what It says I am. I have what It says I have. I can do what It says I can do. Today I will be taught the Word of God. I boldly confess that my mind is alert, my heart is receptive and I will never be the same. In Jesus’ name. Amen
Ruby Nell Bridges Hall (born September 8, 1954) is an American civil rights activist. She was the first African-American child to desegregate the all-white William Frantz Elementary School in Louisiana during the New Orleans school desegregation crisis on 14 November 1960. She is the subject of a 1964 painting, The Problem We All Live With, by Norman Rockwell.

Early life

Bridges was the eldest of five children born to Abon and Lucille Bridges. As a child, she spent much time taking care of her younger siblings, though she also enjoyed playing jump rope, softball and climbing trees. When she was four years old, the family relocated from Tylertown, Mississippi, where Bridges was born, to New Orleans, Louisiana. In 1960, when she was six years old, her parents responded to a request from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and volunteered her to participate in the integration of the New Orleans school system, even though her father was hesitant.

Background

Bridges was born during the middle of the Civil Rights Movement. Brown v. Board of Education was decided three months and twenty-two days before Bridges' birth. The famous court ruling declared the process of separating schools for black children and white children unconstitutional. Though the Brown v. Board of Education decision was finalized in 1954, southern states were extremely resistant to the decision that they must integrate for the six following years. Many white people did not want schools to be integrated and, though it was a federal ruling, state governments were not doing their part in enforcing the new laws. In 1957, federal troops stationed in Little Rock, Arkansas were ordered to combat violence that occurred as a result of the decision. Under significant pressure from the federal government, the Orleans Parish School Board administered an entrance exam to students at Bridges' school with the intention of keeping black people out of white schools.

Integration

Bridges attended a segregated kindergarten in 1959. In early 1960, Bridges was one of six black children in New Orleans to pass the test that determined whether they could go to the all-white William Frantz Elementary School. Two of the six decided to stay at their old school, Bridges went to Frantz by herself, and three children were transferred to McDonogh No. 19 and became known as the McDonogh Three. Bridges and her mother were escorted to school by four federal marshals during the first day that Bridges attended William Frantz Elementary. In the following days of that year, federal marshals continue to escort Bridges, though her mom stayed behind to take care of her younger siblings.

Bridges' father was initially reluctant, but her mother felt strongly that the move was needed not only to give her own daughter a better education, but to "take this step forward [...] for all African-American children". Her mother finally convinced her father to let her go to the school.

Judge J. Skelly Wright's court order for the first day of integrated schools in New Orleans on Monday, November 14, 1960, was commemorated by Norman Rockwell in the painting, The Problem We All Live With (published in Look magazine on January 14, 1964). As Bridges describes it, "Driving up I could see the crowd, but living in New Orleans, I actually thought it was Mardi Gras. There was a large crowd of people outside of the school. They were throwing things and shouting, and that sort of goes on in New Orleans at Mardi Gras." Former United States Deputy Marshal Charles Burks later recalled, "She showed a lot of courage. She never cried. She didn't whimper. She just marched along like a little soldier, and we're all very very proud of her."

As soon as Bridges entered the school, white parents pulled their own children out; all the teachers except for one refused to teach while a black child was enrolled. Only one person agreed to teach Bridges and that was Barbara Henry, from Boston, Massachusetts, and for over a year Henry taught her alone, "as if she were teaching a whole class."

That first day, Bridges and her mother spent the entire day in the principal's office; the chaos of the school prevented their moving to the classroom until the second day. On the second day, however, white student broke the boycott and entered the school when a 34-year-old Methodist minister, Lloyd Anderson Foreman, walked his five-year-old daughter Pam through the angry mob, saying, "I simply want the privilege of taking my child to school ..." A few days later, other white parents began bringing their children, and the protests began to subside. Yet, still, Bridges remained the only child in her class, as she would until the following year. Every morning, as Bridges walked to school, one woman would threaten to poison her, while another held up a black baby doll in a coffin; because of this, the U.S. Marshals dispatched by President Eisenhower, who were overseeing her safety, allowed Bridges to eat only the food that she brought from home.

Child psychiatrist Robert Coles volunteered to provide counseling to Bridges during her first year at Frantz. He met with her weekly in the Bridges home, later writing a children's book, The Story of Ruby Bridges, to acquaint other children with Bridges' story. Coles donated the royalties from the sale of that book to the Ruby Bridges Foundation, to provide money for school supplies or other educational needs for impoverished New Orleans school children.

The Bridges family suffered for their decision to send her to William Frantz Elementary: her father lost his job as a gas station attendant; the grocery store the family shopped at would no longer let them shop there; her grandparents, who were sharecroppers in Mississippi, were turned off their land; and Abon and Lucille Bridges separated. Bridges has noted that many others in the community, both black and white, showed support in a variety of ways. Some white families continued to send their children to Frantz despite the protests, a neighbor provided her father with a new job, and local people babysat, watched the house as protectors, and walked behind the federal marshals' car on the trips to school. It wasn't until Bridges was an adult that she learned that the immaculate clothing she wore to school in those first weeks at Frantz was sent to her family by a relative of Dr. Coles. Bridges says her family could never have afforded the dresses, socks, and shoes that are documented in photographs of her escort by U.S. Marshals to and from the school.

Adult life

Bridges, now Ruby Bridges Hall, still lives in New Orleans with her husband, Malcolm Hall, and their four sons. After graduating from a desegregated high school, she worked as a travel agent for 15 years and later became a full-time parent. She is now chair of the Ruby Bridges Foundation, which she formed in 1999 to promote "the values of tolerance, respect, and appreciation of all differences". Describing the mission of the group, she says, "racism is a grown-up disease and we must stop using our children to spread it."

Bridges is the subject of the Lori McKenna song "Ruby's Shoes". Her childhood struggle at William Frantz Elementary School was portrayed in the 1998 made-for-TV movie Ruby Bridges. The young Bridges was portrayed by actress Chaz Monet, and the movie also featured Lela Rochon as Bridges' mother, Lucille "Lucy" Bridges; Michael Beach as Bridges' father, Abon Bridges; Penelope Ann Miller as Bridges' teacher, Mrs. Henry; and Kevin Pollak as Dr. Robert Coles.

Like hundreds of thousands of others in the greater New Orleans area, Bridges lost her home (in Eastern New Orleans) to catastrophic flooding from the failure of the levee system during Hurricane Katrina in 2005. Hurricane Katrina also greatly damaged William Frantz Elementary School, and Bridges played a significant role in fighting for the school to remain open.
In November 2007, the Children's Museum of Indianapolis unveiled a new permanent exhibit documenting her life, along with the lives of Anne Frank and Ryan White. The exhibit, called “The Power of Children: Making a Difference”, cost $6 million to install and includes an authentic re-creation of Bridges' first grade classroom.

In 2010, Bridges had a 50th-year reunion at William Frantz Elementary with Pam Foreman Testroet, who had been, at the age of five, the first white child to break the boycott that ensued from Bridges' attendance at that school.

On July 15, 2011, Bridges met with President Barack Obama at the White House, and while viewing the Norman Rockwell painting of her on display he told her, “I think it's fair to say that if it hadn't been for you guys, I might not be here and we wouldn't be looking at this together”. The Rockwell painting was displayed in the West Wing of the White House, just outside the Oval Office, from June through October 2011.

Awards and honors
In September 1995, Bridges and Robert Coles were awarded honorary degrees from Connecticut College and appeared together in public for the first time to accept the awards.

Bridges' Through My Eyes won the Carter G. Woodson Book Award in 2000.

On January 8, 2001, Bridges was awarded the Presidential Citizens Medal by President Bill Clinton.

The Alameda Unified School District in California named a new elementary school for Bridges in October 2006, and issued a proclamation in her honor. The following month she was honored as a “Hero Against Racism” at the 12th annual Anti-Defamation League "Concert Against Hate" with the National Symphony Orchestra, held at the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC.

On May 19, 2012, Bridges received an Honorary Degree from Tulane University at the annual graduation ceremony at the Superdome.

In 2014, a statue of Bridges was unveiled in the courtyard of William Frantz Elementary School.

CSTM Presents Healthy Habits For March

Cook it Up! During this month, try to prepare at least three meals a week more than you already do. You'll likely need to be cooking (and freezing) more lunches and breakfasts to get this done.

Cut out added sugar! Fruit is good. Candy... not so much. And some foods that seem healthy have a surprising amount of added sugar such as flavored water, cereal, and ketchup. High consumption of sugar is linked to weight gain, and can increase risk of heart disease, so when you crave something sweet, reach for fruit (cranberries, raspberries, kiwi, avocados, olives) instead.

Thank You

Greater Little Zion Family:

God bless you abundantly for your thoughtfulness. Many loving thanks to my Zion family for your cards, prayers and gifts during my recovery from surgery. God placed me in this thoughtful and loving church family, and I am so thankful to Him and to all of you!

Love in Christ,

Karen Talley

Thank You!

GLZBC Family,

We would like to express our sincere gratitude for your prayers, visits and calls while Brother Abraham Scott was at the Virginia Hospital Center for surgery and as he continues to recover at home. Your expressions of support and being able to fellowship with our church family on Sundays has meant more than you know and has kept him encouraged throughout this process.

Thank You & God Bless,

Brother Abraham Scott and Family

With Special Thanks

This extra-special thank-you note sent to you today holds more appreciation than any words can say. For you’re among the nicest people I have ever known, and you’ll never be forgotten for the thoughtfulness you’ve shown. Thanks for everything

Sincerely,

Bro. Alvin and Sis. Gloria Coates

Thank You!

Thank you Pastor Murphy, Mrs. Murphy, and Greater Little Zion Baptist Church Family for your prayers, telephone calls, greeting cards, soup, and encouragement during my husband's recent illness. Joseph has recovered. We are appreciative and humbled by God’s Grace, plus your collective kindesses and support.

Appreciation of your Prayers Thoughtfulness
I am gratefully able to report that my daughter, Jessica, and granddaughter, Demi, have recovered from the carjacking incident, and save for some ongoing PT and treatment, Jessica is doing well. I appreciate and thank GLZB and especially The Seasoned Saints for the prayers, cards, and support on behalf of my daughter and grandchild. My daughter suffered no broken bones or internal injuries and has begun her new job. Thankfully, the Good Samaritan who chased the car jacker and rescued my granddaughter and telephoned the Police has been identified and appropriately thanked, honored and rewarded.

Lent 2020 - 40 Days of Fasting and Prayer
Wednesday, February 26, 2020 - Thursday, April 9, 2020

Zion family, let’s connect through fasting and prayer for Lent 2020.

Lent is the period of 40 days which comes before Easter and begins on Ash Wednesday, February 26, 2020 and ends on Thursday, April 9, 2020. Beginning on Ash Wednesday, it is a season of reflection and preparation before the celebration of Easter. By observing the 40 days of Lent, Believers replicate Jesus Christ’s sacrifice and withdrawal into the desert for 40 days.

During Lent, you are encouraged to find your own method of confronting your sinfulness, remembering your mortality, and giving thanks for the gift of salvation you receive through the life, death, and resurrection of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

During this time, you are encouraged to reflect, continue in faith and consistent prayer, and practice the act of giving up “something.” That “something” depends on you with the main guideline being that it has to be something that is challenging to give up during this 40 day period (excluding Sundays).

Zion Family, I am asking that you would pray and fast from a food or drink (your choice), and complete a daily read of 40 Days with Jesus—Celebrating His Presence by Sarah Young. I have copies of the book for purchase for $3.00.

Some options to fast: pasta, meats, sweets, coffee or caffeinated drinks, bread, or any sugary drinks. Lastly, remember to pray for God’s blessing over your financial life, personally, and for our Zion Family members.

  Scripture: Psalms 107: 1, 8 & 9, Romans 8:18 Oh, give thanks to the LORD, for HE is good! Oh, that men would give thanks to the LORD for His goodness, and for His wonderful works to the children of men! For He satisfies the longing soul and fills the hungry soul with goodness. For I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.

Focused Family Prayer: As we go into this month where the weather will begin to change in anticipation of spring, let us not give in to the world’s pressures and give in to all the trials that we may experience. Seeking GOD’s presence in every situation is a daily endeavor that can only be achieved by our determination to experience and walk into GOD’S presence. For He wants us to seek Him, not because we need His hand, but desire His presence in every situation. Seek Him, as He continually waits to build relationships in our families. SEEK HIM TODAY IN ALL THINGS! POCs: Deacons Anthony & Terri Bazemore

Ag Discovery Program
Sharing is caring! Please inform your relatives, congregation and youth mentoring group the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is offering amazing opportunities for middle and high school students (grades 7th - 11th) looking for a unique summer internship with an opportunity to live and study on a college campus. Online applications must be submitted before midnight ET on March 20, 2020. Mailed Applications must be postmarked by March 20, 2020.

AgDiscovery is a unique opportunity designed for students to gain first-hand knowledge at the many career paths open to them in the agricultural sciences. For those interested in an agricultural career, AgDiscovery is a great way to get started. There is no cost to attend program because tuition, room and board, lab supplies, meals, and activity fees will be covered by APHIS. Students selected for the program are only responsible for costs that may be associated with traveling to the university campus on opening day and returning home at the conclusion of the program on closing day.

To learn more about this year's program, including dates, locations, cost information, eligibility, and how to apply, please go to https://agnr.umd.edu/admissions/ag-discovery-program. Applicants will be notified the week of April 20, 2020 if they have been selected for this summer’s program, and non-selected applicants will receive a letter in the mail at the end of May.

Who Should Apply
• High school students looking to improve their resume for college
• Teachers looking for opportunities to expand their students' view of agriculture
• Parents looking for learning opportunities for their teenager
